++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells with a few snow showers in east. Cold.

Today:
A few snow showers towards the east coast, otherwise a dry day with some long spells of sunshine, although Galloway cloudier at times. Temperatures struggling to rise above freezing in places despite the freshening southeasterly breeze. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry with long clear spells this evening and at first overnight, cloud increasing later in west. Widespread sub-zero temperatures, not as low as recent nights due to the southeasterly breeze. Minimum temperature -5 deg C (23 deg F).

Saturday:
A mainly dry day with, especially in the east, some good spells of sunshine. However increasing cloud may bring some light snow to Dumfries and Galloway later. Strong southeasterly winds. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Bright start Sunday but outbreaks of snow, with risk of freezing rain in east, spreading east, turning to rain later. Occasional rain Monday and Tuesday but milder with winds easing.
